

As part of the Title I and Title III program federal mandates, the School District of Washington is required to have a Title I and III Parent Advisory Committee (TI & III-PAC) who assists in the development and evaluation of the Title I and III programs which are designed to help students achieve success in reading and math and to assist students in becoming proficient in speaking English. The committee is comprised of parent representatives from throughout the District. The TI & III-PAC will also include teacher and administrator representation.
